Introduction

The US National Counterterrorism Center is pleased to present the 2007 edition of the Counterterrorism (CT) Calendar. This edition, the largest since the Calendar first appeared in a daily planner format in 2003, contains many features across the full range of terrorism-related issues: terrorist groups, wanted terrorists, and technical pages on various threat-related issues. The Calendar marks dates according to the Gregorian and Islamic calendars, and contains significant dates in terrorism history as well as dates that terrorists may believe are important when planning “commemoration-style” attacks.

The CT Calendar is designed for anyone concerned with terrorism or threat: law-enforcement, intelligence, military, security personnel, contingency planners, or simply citizens concerned by terrorist threats. The Calendar is oriented primarily to readers in the United States, but we hope that we have also made it useful for citizens of other countries. We welcome suggestions on ways to improve the Counterterrorism Calendar.

Bin Laden's notional caliphate

Established by Usama Bin Ladin in 1988 with Arabs who fought in Afghanistan against the Soviet Union, al-Qa'ida's goal is uniting Muslims to fight the West, especially the United States, as a means of defeating Israel, overthrowing regimes al-Qa'ida deems "non-Islamic," and expelling Westerners and non-Muslims from Muslim countries. Al-Qa'ida's stated goal is the establishment of a pan-Islamic caliphate throughout the world. Al-Qa'ida issued a statement in February 1998 under the banner of "the World Islamic Front for Jihad Against the Jews and Crusaders," saying it was the duty of all Muslims to kill US citizens—civilian and military—and their allies everywhere. The group merged with the Egyptian Islamic Jihad (al-Jihad) in June 2001, renaming itself "Qa'idat al-Jihad."

Al-Qa'ida Leadership

On 11 September 2001, 19 al-Qa'ida suicide attackers hijacked and crashed four US commercial jets—two into the World Trade Center in New York City, one into the Pentagon near Washington, D.C., and a fourth into a field in Shanksville, Pennsylvania—leaving nearly 3,000 people dead or missing. Al-Qa'ida also directed the 12 October 2000 attack on the USS Cole in the port of Aden, Yemen, killing 17 US sailors and injuring another 39, and conducted the bombings in August 1998 of the US Embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, that killed 224 people and injured more than 5,000 others. From 2002 to 2005, al-Qa'ida, using its own operatives or surrogates and sympathetic groups, backed attacks in Tunisia, Indonesia, Kenya, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, and other countries.

RECENT ACTIVITY

In 2005 Bin Ladin's deputy, Ayman al-Zawahiri, publicly claimed unspecified al-Qa'ida involvement in the 7 July 2005 bombings in the United Kingdom, although investigation of responsibility continues. In 2006, the British Government stated that parts of the Heathrow plot that was foiled by British security services had "all the hallmarks of al-Qa'ida participation." Also in 2006, al-Zawahiri announced that the Algerian organization Salafist Group for Preaching and Combat had joined al-Qa'ida and would be working in tandem with it. Also known as the Salafist Group for Call and Combat, the GSPC had fought a bloody civil war in Algeria that killed thousands of civilians.

Abu Ayyub al-Masri

Date of Birth: (Most biographical details unknown)

Citizenship: Egypt

Language: Arabic

---

ALIASES Abu Hamza al-Muhajir

REMARKS Ayman al-Zawahiri, al-Qa'ida second in command, has publicly named Abu Ayyub al-Masri, a.k.a. Abu Hamza al-Muhajir, as the replacement for Abu Mus'ab al-Zarqawi and the new leader of al-Qa'ida in Iraq. Abu Ayyub al-Masri is the last remaining original member of the Mujahidin Shura Council in Iraq, and remains a central figure in al-Qa'ida in Iraq. Abu Ayyub al-Masri is an Egyptian national who served as al-Zarqawi's senior operational coordinator and arranged the first meetings between Ansar-al-Islam commander Umar Baziyani and al-Zarqawi.

WANTED Abu Ayyub al-Masri has conspired with al-Zarqawi and al-Qa'ida in Iraq to launch terrorist attacks against US personnel and property in Iraq, to include constructing and supplying vehicle-borne improvised explosive devices (VBIEDs) used in suicide attacks and providing safehouses for insurgents. It is likely Abu Ayyub al-Masri was involved in the construction of the VBIEDs that were used in the al-Zarqawi network attacks on the UN Headquarters, Jordanian Embassy, Ashura, and Arba'in commemoration bombings, and the Assassin Gate attack on the Coalition Provisional Authority.

REWARD The Rewards for Justice Program, US Department of State, is offering up to $5 million for information leading to the apprehension or arrest of Abu Ayyub al-Masri. If you have any information concerning this person, please contact your local FBI office if you are in the United States or the nearest US Embassy or Consulate. # Al-Qa'ida in Iraq

This group was initially established as Jama'at al-Tawhid wa-al Jihad, "Unity and Jihad," in April 2004 by long-time Jordanian jihadist Abu Mus'ab al-Zarqawi. Using such tactics as vehicle-borne improvised explosive devices, suicide bombers, and the execution of hostages by beheading and other means, the group has targeted Coalition forces and attempted to pressure countries and foreign companies to leave Iraq, to push Iraqis to stop supporting the United States and the Iraqi Government, and to attract additional cadre to its ranks.

Abu Ayyub Al-Masri

In a 17 October 2004 statement, al-Zarqawi pledged allegiance to Usama Bin Ladin and renamed the group Tanzim Qa'idat al-Jihad fi Bilad al-Rafidayn ("The Base of Jihad in the Land of the Two Rivers," the common reference for Iraq). As part of their plan to spread jihad into "Greater Syria"—that is, Syria, Lebanon, Israel, and Jordan—and establish an Islamic state there, al-Qa'ida in Iraq (AQI) expanded its targeting outside of Iraq in the August 2005 attempted rocket attack on a US ship in the Port of Aqaba, Jordan, and in November 2005 with the bombing of three hotels in Amman that left 67 dead and over 150 injured. In an attempt to unify Sunni jihadists in Iraq, in January 2006 AQI created the Mujahidin Shura Council (MSC), an umbrella organization that five other small jihadist groups joined. AQI now claims attacks under the name of the MSC. Al-Zarqawi made it a priority to foster sectarian violence between the Shia and Sunni in Iraq to incite civil war, primarily through the targeting of Shia civilians.

*Remains of Al-Zarqawi safehouse,
8 June 2006*

RECENT ACTIVITY

Al-Zarqawi was killed by a US airstrike on 7 June 2006. Following his death, AQI announced Abu Hamza al-Muhajir, also known as Abu Ayyub al-Masri, the new leader of the terrorist organization. Despite the turnover in leadership, as of October 2006 AQI had claimed over 5,000 attacks in Iraq with no evidence of a change in strategy or tactics, and continues to target Coalition forces and Shia civilians.

Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC)

Established in 1964 as the military wing of the Colombian Communist Party, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (Fuerzas Armadas Revolucionarias de Colombia, FARC) is Latin America's oldest, largest, most capable, and best-equipped insurgency of Marxist origin—although it only nominally fights in support of Marxist goals today. The FARC primarily operates in Colombia, with some activities—extortion, kidnapping, weapons sourcing, and logistics—in neighboring countries.

TACTICS

Mono Jaloy

FARC tactics include bombings, murder, mortar attacks, kidnapping, extortion, and hijacking, as well as guerrilla and conventional military action against Colombian political, military, and economic targets. The FARC has well-documented ties to the full range of narcotics trafficking activities, including taxation, cultivation, and distribution. Foreign citizens often are targets of FARC kidnapping for ransom and political leverage. The FARC considers US persons to be legitimate military targets due to US support for the Colombian Government, and the group continues to hold three US contractors captured in February 2003 when their plane crashed in a FARC stronghold.

RECENT ACTIVITY

Flag of the FARC

A Colombian military offensive targeting FARC fighters in their former safehaven in southern Colombia has experienced some success, with several mid-level leaders killed or captured. France, Spain, and Switzerland in November 2005 formed an international commission to aid the Colombian Government and the FARC with humanitarian exchange negotiations—which have yet to bear fruit.

Lashkar-e-Tayyiba (LT or LeT) Army of the Righteous

LT is one of the largest and most proficient of the Kashmiri-focused militant groups. Since 1993, LT has conducted a number of attacks against Indian troops and civilian targets in the disputed Jammu and Kashmir province. The Indian Government has implicated the group in the 11 July 2006 attack on multiple Mumbai commuter trains and the failed December 2001 armed assault on the Indian Parliament building. In March 2002, senior al-Qa'ida lieutenant Abu Zubaydah was captured at an LT safehouse in Faisalabad, suggesting that some LT members may assist al-Qa'ida. LT members have been arrested in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The actual size of LT is unknown, but the group probably has several thousand members, predominantly Pakistani nationals seeking a united Kashmir under Pakistani rule.

RECENT ACTIVITY

LT has coordinated charitable activities through its front organization, Jamaat-ud-Dawa (JUD), which spearheaded humanitarian relief to the victims of the October 2005 earthquake in Kashmir.

LEGAL STATUS

Pakistan banned the group and froze its assets in 2002.

'Asbat al-Ansar

'Asbat al-Ansar—the Partisans League—is a Lebanon-based Sunni extremist group. The group primarily is composed of Palestinians but is ideologically associated with al-Qa'ida and has links to al-Qa'ida-inspired Sunni terrorism. The group follows an extremist interpretation of Islam that justifies violence against civilian targets to achieve political ends. Some of those goals include overthrowing the Lebanese Government and thwarting perceived anti-Islamic influences in the country. 'Asbat al-Ansar has carried out several terrorist attacks in Lebanon since it first emerged in the early 1990s. The group's primary base of operations is the 'Ayn al-Hilwah Palestinian refugee camp near Sidon in southern Lebanon. The Lebanese Government outlawed 'Asbat al-Ansar in 2002.

Palestine Islamic Jihad (PIJ)

The PIJ was formed by militant Palestinians in the Gaza Strip during the 1970s. The group is committed to the creation of an Islamic state in all of historical Palestine and the destruction of Israel through attacks against Israeli military and civilian targets. The group's central leadership resides in Syria and receives financial assistance primarily from Iran. PIJ refuses to participate in the political process. The group's paramilitary wing—the al-Quds Brigades—has conducted numerous attacks, including large-scale suicide bombings.

During 2006, PIJ was the most active Palestinian extremist group in continuing anti-Israeli attacks—including a suicide bombing in Tel Aviv that killed nine people in April. Although US citizens have died in attacks mounted by the PIJ, the group has not directly targeted US interests.

Indicators of Suspicious Financial Activity

- 1 Account transactions that are inconsistent with past deposits or withdrawals
- 2 Transactions involving a high volume of incoming or outgoing wire transfers with no logical or apparent purpose that come from, go to, or transit locations of concern (for example, sanctioned countries, noncooperative nations, and sympathizer nations)
- 3 Unexplainable clearing or negotiation of third-party checks and their deposits in foreign bank accounts
- 4 Breaking transactions larger than $10,000 into smaller amounts by making multiple deposits or withdrawals or by buying cashier's checks, money orders, or other monetary instruments to evade reporting requirements
- 5 Corporate layering (that is, transfers between bank accounts of related entities or charities for no apparent reason)
- 6 Wire transfers by charitable organizations to companies located in countries known to be bank or tax havens
- 7 Charitable bank deposits that lack signs of fund-raising activity (for example, lack of small checks or typical donations)
- 8 Use of multiple accounts to collect funds that are transferred to the same foreign beneficiaries
- 9 Transactions without logical economic purpose (that is, no link between the activity of the organization and other parties involved in the transaction)
- 10 Overlapping corporate officers, bank signatories, or other identifiable similarities associated with the same addresses, references, and financial activities
- 11 Cash-debiting schemes in which deposits in the United States correlate directly with ATM cash withdrawals in countries of concern; reverse transactions of this nature are also suspicious
- 12 Issuance of checks, money orders, or other financial instruments, often numbered sequentially, to the same or similarly named person or business

Abu Sayyaf Group (ASG)

The ASG is the most violent of the Islamic separatist groups operating in the southern Philippines and claims to promote an independent Islamic state in western Mindanao and the Sulu Archipelago. Split from the Moro National Liberation Front in the early 1990s, the group currently engages in kidnappings for ransom, bombings, assassinations, and extortion, and has ties to Jemaah Islamiya (JI). The ASG operates mainly in Basilan, Sulu, and Tawi-Tawi Provinces in the Sulu Archipelago, and has a presence on Mindanao. Members also occasionally travel to Manila.

Janjalani

The ASG has used terror both for financial profit and to promote its jihadist agenda. In April 2000, an ASG faction kidnapped 21 persons—including 10 Westerners—from a Malaysian resort, and, in May 2001, the ASG kidnapped three US citizens and 17 Filipinos from a resort in Palawan, Philippines, later murdering several of the hostages, including one US citizen. On 27 February 2004, members of Khadafi Janjalani's faction bombed a ferry in Manila Bay, killing 116, and on 14 February 2005, they perpetrated simultaneous bombings in the cities of Manila, General Santos, and Davao, killing at least eight and injuring about 150.

RECENT ACTIVITY

In 2006, ASG leader Janjalani's faction relocated to Sulu, where they joined forces with local ASG supporters and are providing shelter to fugitive JI members from Indonesia.

Biological Threats

Clinical Features	Diagnosis	Medical Management
Botulinum Toxins
Symptoms appear several hours to one to two days after exposure.	An epidemic of cases of bulbar and neuromuscular disease.	Respiratory failure is the principal cause of death. Tracheostomy, endotracheal intubation, and ventilatory assistance may be required.
Initial Blurred vision, drooping eyelids, difficulty understanding language, difficulty in speaking, muscle weakness.	Other causes could be considered; however, the extent and epidemiology of the outbreak will help diagnose and define whether or not there was an attack.	Antitoxins are available, but they are horse serums and may produce reactions in those allergic to horse serum.
Progression—Day 3 Mucous in throat, neuromuscular symptoms, respiratory distress, difficulty in swallowing, feels like a cold without fever.
Progression—Day 4 Indistinct speech, pupils moderately dilated, retarded eye motions, "mental numbness."
Smallpox
Incubation average 12 days. Symptoms begin acutely.	It is necessary to distinguish smallpox from chicken pox. Examination of vesicular scrapings under a microscope is the usual method for diagnosis.	Strict quarantine for 17 days of all persons in contact with index cases.
Phase I Symptoms: Malaise, fever, chills, vomiting, headache, backache. Light-skinned patients may exhibit rash during this phase.		No specific therapy.
Phase II Symptoms: Facial rash and eruptions on mucous membrane leading to infectious secretions. Eruptions on lower extremities spreading to the trunk over the following eight to 14 days. (Later, these pustules form scabs.)		Supportive care to prevent secondary infections.
Venezuelan Equine Encephalitis (VEE)
Incubation two to six days (can be as short as 24 hours)	Epidemic febrile illness.	Standard precautions for healthcare workers.
Symptoms: Chills, high fever, headache, malaise, sensitivity to light, sore throat, muscle pain, vomiting.	White blood count shows striking leukopenia and lymphopenia. Virus may be isolated in serum. Sick or dying horses in the vicinity would be an indicator.	Analgesics for headaches.
Cutaneous Anthrax
Incubation one to five days. Small bump progressing to blister which ruptures, leaving an ulcer containing dead tissue.	Development of a painless itchy lesion, blister, or ulcer which develops into a black scab. Fever.	Penicillin (oral). Additional treatment required if there is evidence of spreading infection.
Inhalation Anthrax
Nonspecific symptoms ("flu-like"). Possible non-productive cough and mild chest discomfort. Symptoms last two to three days, possibly followed by a short period of improvement followed by sudden onset of respiratory distress, chest pain, difficulty breathing, and purple coloration of mucous membrane. Shock and death follows within 24 to 36 hours.	Diagnosis is difficult. Early symptoms are entirely nonspecific. Development of respiratory distress in association with X-ray evidence of widened mediastinum and hemorrhagic pleural effusion.	Large doses of intravenous penicillin and ciprofloxacin.

Dead animals/birds/fish	Not just an occasional incident, but numerous animals (wild and domestic, small and large), birds, and fish in the same area
Lack of insect life	Normal insect activity (ground, air, and/or water) missing, dead insects evident in the ground/water surface/shoreline
Physical symptoms	Numerous individuals experiencing unexplained water-like blisters, wheals (similar to bee stings), pinpointed pupils, choking, respiratory ailments and/or rashes
Mass casualties	Numerous individuals exhibiting unexplained serious health problems ranging from nausea to disorientation to difficulty in breathing to convulsions and death
Definite pattern of casualties	Casualties distributed in a pattern that may be associated with possible agent dissemination methods
Illness associated with confined geographic area	Lower incidence of symptoms for people working indoors than outdoors, or the reverse
Unusual liquid droplets	Numerous surfaces exhibiting oily droplets/film; numerous water surfaces displaying an oily film (no recent rain)
Areas that look different in appearance	Not just a patch of dead weeds, but trees, shrubs, bushes, food crops, and/or lawns that are dead, discolored, or withered (no current drought)
Unexplained odors	Smells ranging from fruity to flowery to sharp/pungent to garlic/horseradish-like to bitter almonds/peach kernels to newly mown hay; the particular odor is completely out of character with its surroundings
Low-lying clouds	Low-lying cloud/fog-like condition that is not explained by its surroundings
Unusual metal debris	Unexplained bomb/munitions-like material, especially if it contains a liquid (no recent rain)

Al-Ittihad al-Islami (AIAI, Islamic Union)

Once Somalia's largest militant Islamic organization, al-Ittihad al-Islami rose to power in the early 1990s following the collapse of the regime of Somali President Mohamed Siad Barre but now constitutes a loose collection of independent militant groups with no identifiable central authority. Former AIAI leader Hassan Dahir Aweys now dominates the extremist faction of the Union of Islamic Courts, which took control of Mogadishu and much of southern Somalia in June 2006. AIAI's aim was to establish an Islamic regime in Somalia and force the secession of the Ogaden region of Ethiopia.

RECENT ACTIVITY

Former AIAI members likely remain active in jihadist pursuits and groups targeting Ethiopia. Former elements of AIAI may have been responsible for kidnappings and murders of relief workers in Somaliland in 2003 and 2004.

Revolutionary People's Liberation Party/Front

Revolutionary People's Liberation Party/Front (DHKP/C) was originally formed in 1978 as Devrimci Sol, or Dev Sol, a splinter faction of Dev Genc (Revolutionary Youth). It was renamed in 1994 after factional infighting. The group espouses a Marxist-Leninist ideology and is vehemently anti-US, anti-NATO, and anti-Turkish establishment. Its goals are the founding of a socialist state and the abolition of one- to three-man prison cells, called F-type prisons. DHKP/C finances its activities chiefly through donations and extortion.

Since the late 1980s the group has targeted primarily current and retired Turkish security and military officials. In the 1990s it began attacking foreign interests, including attacks against US military and diplomatic personnel and facilities.

RECENT ACTIVITY

Karatas

DHKP/C added suicide bombings to its tactics in 2001, with successful attacks against Turkish police in January and September. Since the end of 2001, DHKP/C has typically used improvised explosive devices against official Turkish targets and soft US targets of opportunity; attacks against US targets beginning in 2003 probably came in response to Operation Iraqi Freedom. Operations against the group and arrests of its members have weakened its capabilities; it probably has several dozen terrorist operatives inside Turkey, with a large support network throughout Europe.

PREVIOUS NAMES

DHKP/C is also known as Devrimci Sol, Dev Sol, and Revolutionary Left.

Indicators of a Possible Biological Incident

Unusual Numbers of Sick or Dying People or Animals

Any number of symptoms may occur. As a first responder, strong consideration should be given to calling local hospitals to see if additional casualties with similar symptoms have been observed. Casualties may occur hours to days to weeks after an incident has occurred. The time required before symptoms are observed is dependent on the agent used and the dose received. Additional symptoms likely to occur include unexplained gastrointestinal illnesses and upper respiratory problems similar to flu/colds.

Unscheduled and Unusual Spray Being Disseminated

Especially if outdoors during periods of darkness.

Abandoned Spray Devices

Devices will have no distinct odors.

HAMAS (Islamic Resistance Movement)

HAMAS formed in late 1987 as a result of the first Palestinian Intifadah (uprising). Its roots are in the Palestinian branch of the Muslim Brotherhood and it is supported by a robust social/political structure inside the Palestinian territories. HAMAS has used various forms of violence, including high-profile terrorist attacks against Israeli civilian targets designed to disrupt peace talks between Israeli and Palestinian officials and to prevent agreements aimed at ending the conflict. The group advocates establishing an Islamic Palestinian state in place of Israel and views all agreements made between the PLO and Israel as illegitimate. HAMAS's strength is concentrated in the Gaza Strip and areas of the West Bank.

HAMAS has a paramilitary arm, the Izz al-Din al-Qassam Brigades, which conducted the majority of anti-Israeli attacks in Israel or the Palestinian territories during the 1990s. These included large-scale terrorist bombings against Israeli civilian targets, as well as small-arms attacks, roadside improvised explosives, and the launching of Qassam rockets into Israel. HAMAS' remains focused on its conflict with Israel and has not attacked US targets. While the group receives some support from foreign countries and movements, it remains independent.

The group largely adhered to the calm agreed to in the Cairo agreement in 2005 but has proclaimed its right to respond to perceived Israeli provocations. In 2006 HAMAS won legislative elections, ending the secular Fatah party's hold on the Palestinian Authority and challenging Fatah's leadership of the Palestinian national movement. After January, HAMAS largely refrained from suicide bombings or other attacks against Israeli targets, but refused to recognize the Jewish state or renounce violence, conditions for alleviating an international financial blockade of the Palestinian Authority.

Unusual Numbers of Sick or Dying People or Animals

As a first responder, strong consideration should be given to calling local hospitals to see if additional casualties with similar symptoms have been observed. Casualties may occur hours to days or weeks after an incident has occurred. The time required before symptoms are observed is dependent on the radioactive material used and the dose received. Additional symptoms include skin reddening and, in severe cases, vomiting.

Unusual Metal Debris

Unexplained bomb/munitions-like material.

Radiation Symbols

Containers may display a radiation symbol.

Heat Emitting Material

Material that seems to emit heat without any sign of external heating source.

Glowing Material/Particles

If the material is strongly radioactive, it may appear to glow.

Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigade

The Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigade (AAMB) comprises an unknown number of small cells of Fatah-affiliated activists that emerged at the outset of the second Palestinian “al-Aqsa Intifadah” (uprising) in September 2000. The AAMB’s goal is to drive the Israeli military and settlers from the West Bank and Gaza Strip and establish a Palestinian state. The AAMB initially employed small-arms attacks against Israeli military personnel and settlers in the West Bank but changed tactics in 2002 to include suicide bombings against Israeli civilians. In January 2002, the group claimed responsibility for the first female suicide bombing in Israel.

After a deadly AAMB bombing in March 2002, the United States designated the group a Foreign Terrorist Organization.

AAMB operates mainly in the West Bank and has also conducted attacks inside Israel and the Gaza Strip. AAMB has killed a number of US citizens, most of them dual US-Israeli citizens, in its attacks. The group has members in refugee camps in southern Lebanon and overseas, though no demonstrated transnational capability.

AAMB cells operate with autonomy, though they remained ideologically loyal to Palestinian Authority (PA) President ‘Arafat until his death in 2004. AAMB largely suspended anti-Israeli attacks as part of the broader unilateral Palestinian cease-fire agreement during 2005 but resumed them following HAMAS’s electoral victory in January 2006. AAMB members have since been responsible for raids on PA political offices and anti-Israeli rocket launches.

200 kg of Explosives

A terrorist cell's skill in constructing Improvised Explosive Devices or Vehicle-Borne Improvised Explosive Devices (IED, VBIED) is likely to influence the type of attack it might execute. Bombmakers with only rudimentary skills may be restricted to assembling basic devices. A skilled journeyman bombmaker may have the competence needed to build a range of IEDs from small to large that are highly concealable or have advanced capabilities such as multiple triggering methods, directional blasts, or increased blast effect. Two-hundred kg of explosives can make:

200 Pipe Bombs
@ 1 kg each

20 Suicide Vests
@ 10 kg each

2 small VBIEDs
@ 100 kg each

Sufficient booster charge for 4,000 kg of homemade explosives in a VBIED.

Islamic: Death of Khadija (Prophet Muhammad's wife) Jewish: Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement)

Islamic dates and holidays are approximate, as they are determined by local lunar observation. Islamic and Jewish holidays begin the evening preceding the date shown unless stated otherwise.

Islam requires that the month of Ramadan be devoted to fasting and prayer. During this month, Muslims fast from dawn to sunset each day. Muslims are banned from fighting other Muslims during Ramadan, but they may engage in combat with non-Muslims. Islamic extremists have extolled Ramadan as a month of jihad, or holy war, against non-believers. Many Islamic extremists believe that suicide operations (“martyrdom”), especially if done during Ramadan, guarantee the bomber a place in paradise. In 2007, Ramadan is expected to begin the evening of 12 September and run through 12 October.

NIGHT OF POWER

Laylat al-Qadr

A time that Islamic extremists might consider especially auspicious for a terrorist attack is Laylat al-Qadr (“Night of Power”). Islamic tradition holds that, on this night, rewards for deeds pleasing to Allah are magnified a thousandfold, and extremists in particular believe that the gates of heaven are opened then for those who wage “jihad” in defense of Islam to enter paradise. Islamic scholars generally agree that the most likely date for Laylat al-Qadr to occur each year is the evening of the 27th day of Ramadan—the anniversary of Allah’s first revelation to the Prophet Muhammad of the Quran—which is expected to be the night of 8-9 October in 2007. However, many scholars believe that other likely dates for Laylat al-Qadr are the evenings of the 21st, 23rd, 25th, or 29th day of Ramadan. Some scholars teach that any of the last 10 evenings of Ramadan are potential dates for Laylat al-Qadr.

THE BATTLE OF BADR

A second date during the month of Ramadan when Islamic extremists might consider it auspicious to attack would be the anniversary of the Battle of Badr, the 17th day of Ramadan. Muhammad and his army fought this battle against non-Islamic combatants in the face of overwhelming odds. It is considered to have laid the foundation for the Islamic State. In 2007, the 17th day of Ramadan is expected to be on 29 September.

ALIASES

Adberraouf Jdey, also known as Farouq al-Tunisi, has an extensive history of extremist affiliations. He has been closely linked with al-Qa'ida operatives and has been involved in plans for conducting hijacking and other terrorist operations. Jdey is an associate of Tunisian terror suspect Faker Ben Abdelaziz Boussora (see page 54).

REMARKS

Jdey left his native Tunisia in 1991 and immigrated to Montreal, becoming a Canadian citizen in 1995. He departed Canada in 1999 and received combat training and experience in Afghanistan through 2000. During this time, Jdey also appeared in a well-known martyrdom video that was later found in an al-Qa'ida leader's house in 2001.

Jdey left Canada in 2001. His whereabouts since then are unknown. He was last identified as possibly being in Turkey in early 2002. Authorities remain concerned that Jdey may attempt to return to Canada or the United States to plan or participate in a terrorist attack.

Hizballah (Party of God)

Formed in 1982 in response to the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, this Lebanon-based radical Shia group advocates Shia empowerment within Lebanon. The group also supports Palestinian rejectionist groups in their struggle against Israel. Hizballah is known or suspected to have been involved in numerous anti-US terrorist attacks, including the suicide truck bombings of the US Embassy in Beirut in April 1983, the US Marine barracks in Beirut in October 1983, and the US Embassy annex in Beirut in September 1984; as well as the hijacking of TWA 847 in 1985 and support to the Khobar Towers attack in Saudi Arabia in 1996. The group was also believed to be involved in the assassination of Saudi diplomats in Thailand in 1989, the bombing of the Israeli Embassy in Argentina in 1992, and the 1994 bombing of the Jewish cultural center in Buenos Aires. Hizballah primarily operates in the Bekaa Valley, Hermil, the southern suburbs of Beirut, and southern Lebanon. The group has established cells in the Middle East, Europe, Africa, South America, North America, and Asia.

Since the passage of UN Security Council Resolution 1559 in the fall of 2004, which called for the disarmament of all armed militias in Lebanon, Hizballah has focused on justifying its retention of arms by casting itself within Lebanon as the only reliable bulwark against Israeli aggression. To this end, Hizballah kidnapped two Israeli soldiers on the Israeli side of the Israel-Lebanon border on 12 July 2006 in a gambit to negotiate the release of Lebanese and other Arab prisoners being held by Israel. In response, Israel launched an extensive military campaign against Hizballah in Lebanon with the aim of eradicating the organization. Pursuant to the UN-brokered cease-fire in August 2006, Hizballah has claimed victory by virtue of its survival and has sought to use the recent conflict to justify its need to retain its arms as a Lebanese resistance force.

The group is also known as the Islamic Resistance, Islamic Jihad, Revolutionary Justice Organization, and Organization of the Oppressed on Earth.

Jemaah Islamiya (JI)

Jemaah Islamiya (JI) is an Indonesia-based Islamic extremist group with cells operating throughout Southeast Asia. The group's stated goal is to create an Islamic state—or caliphate—that would encompass Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Brunei, the southern Philippines, and southern Thailand. JI has been responsible for several major, lethal bombings against Western targets in Indonesia, including the attack on a nightclub in Bali in 2002 in which 202 people were killed; the bombing of the Jakarta Marriott hotel in 2003; the truck bombing of the Australian Embassy in 2004; and the October 2005 bombings of tourist sites in Bali that killed 23 and injured over 100.

RECENT ARRESTS

Abu Bakar Bashir

JI spiritual leader Abu Bakar Bashir was released from prison in June 2006. However, authorities have detained operations chief Hambali, killed chief bombmaker Azahari, and continue to hunt other senior JI leaders and operatives—including Noordin Mohammed Top—who are at large in Indonesia and elsewhere in Southeast Asia. JI members arrested in Singapore, Malaysia, and the Philippines have indicated that the organization has links to al-Qa'ida.

Jaish-e-Mohammed (JEM), a.k.a. *Army of Mohammed

Jaish-e-Mohammed (JEM) is an Islamic extremist group based in Pakistan. Formed by Masood Azhar upon his release from prison in India in December 1999 in exchange for 155 hijacked Indian Airlines hostages, the group's aim is to unite Kashmir with Pakistan.

The Indian Government has publicly implicated JEM, along with Lashkar-e-Tayyiba, for the 13 December 2001 attack on the Indian Parliament that killed nine and injured 18. By 2003, JEM had splintered into Khuddam ul-Islam (KUI) and Jamaat ul-Furqan (JUF). Pakistan banned KUI and JUF in November 2003.

LEGAL STATUS

The United States announced the addition of JEM to the US Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Asset Control list in October 2001 and the Foreign Terrorist Organization list in December 2001. The group was banned, and the Pakistani Government froze its assets in January 2002.

TACTICS

JEM is active throughout Kashmir and, to a lesser extent, India. In its attacks it uses weapons such as grenades, small arms, and improvised explosives.

RECENT ACTIVITY

In spring and summer 2006, JEM conducted a series of attacks in Kashmir and India, including against Kashmiri police stations, resulting in several killed and dozens injured. In July 2005, JEM was responsible for the failed attack against a Hindu temple in Ayodha, India.

Ansar al-Sunna (AS)

Ansar al-Sunna is a Sunni extremist group of Iraqi Kurds and Arabs intent on establishing an Islamic state in Iraq. In late 2003, AS became known as the Iraqi element of the Kurdish terrorist network Ansar al-Islam, which was formed in 2001. The group is believed to have members located throughout Europe and possibly the United States. AS has worked closely with al-Qa'ida senior leadership and al-Qa'ida in Iraq (AQI), and they have carried out joint operations in Iraq. Some AS members trained in al-Qa'ida camps in Afghanistan, and the group provided safehaven to al-Qa'ida fighters in northern Iraq before Operation Iraqi Freedom commenced in March 2003.

TACTICS AS operates primarily in northern and central Iraq and consistently claims the second largest number of Sunni jihadist attacks in Iraq behind AQI. The group regularly targets Coalition forces, Iraqi government and security forces, and Iraqi political parties.

RECENT ACTIVITY AS has claimed responsibility for many high-profile attacks in Iraq, including the suicide bombing of a US military dining facility in Mosul in December 2004 that killed 22 US and Coalition soldiers. AS continues to conduct and claim responsibility for car bombings, assassinations, and kidnappings in Iraq, and as of October 2006 had claimed over 1,500 attacks that year.

Terrorist Organization Logos

Law enforcement officers should be on the watch for these emblems and/or named groups during traffic stops and other contacts. These emblems may be found on jewelry, documents, auto stickers, and other forms of advertisement. Their display may indicate membership in these groups and/or financial/general support for the listed groups. Some of these groups appear on the US Secretary of State's list of Foreign Terrorist Organizations, or are groups that are believed to incorporate violence in the pursuit of their political objectives.
